Farmer's bulletin No. 380, published by the bureau of plant industry, treats of loco weed poisoning and has been issued largely in response to demands of ranchmen of the western plain and Rocky mountain states where the loco weed is found. While investigations into the matter have not been completed, some of the findings are of definite and practical value. The bulletin states that of the two varieties of loco weed, purple and white, the former, although the more poisonous, affects horses almost exclusively, as cattle and sheep rarely eat it. The white is eaten by all three animals and produces disease in all of them. The worst effects of the disease are noticed in animals which acquire a taste for the weed and eat it when other herbage is abundant. Locoed animals may recover under careful feeding and by being kept on a range from which the weed has been eradicated. The cure is hastened by the use of Fowler's solution for horses and strychnine for cattle. Loco weeds may be eradicated from fenced pastures by cutting the plant below the crown buds.

PROPHECY BIG TOURIST SEASON

Summer Bookings at Local Hotels already being Made. Convention, Automobile and Grand Army Business Promise Busy Time.

That a prosperous tourist season is ahead for Gettysburg during the Summer of 1910 is confidently predicted by those in a position to judge from present indications.

Although January is not yet past a number of towns have already booked hotel accommodations for Summer trips to Gettysburg. Practically all of these are for two or three day stays and the fact that these arrangements are made at this time indicates clearly that tourist agents see a busy Summer ahead for the town. As a rule these reservations are not made until several weeks and sometimes several months later.

The constant increase in automobile traffic promises to continue during the coming season. The Summer of 1909 exceeded all others in this line and hotels and guides reaped a harvest from the autoists while souvenir people also profited from this part of the tourist traffic.

The State convocation of the Knights of the Golden Eagle will be the principal event along the convention line while all Gettysburgians are hoping confidently for the biennial division encampment of the National Guard of Pennsylvania. Col. W. F. Richardson's successor is a staunch friend of Gettysburg and all indications point to our securing this most valuable drawing card.

The visit of Grand Army veterans from all parts of the United States at the time of their national encampment at Atlantic City is also expected. The various Western railroads have been communicated with and will, in all probability, give special rates on side trips to this place at the time of the encampment.

All things taken into consideration things look good for a busy and prosperous Summer.

The young man had been paying marked attention to the young lady for the past seven months but the marriage came as a surprise to all friends. The bride is only sixteen years of age while the groom is about twenty two.

The young people left York Springs presumably to visit a sister, Mrs. Shope, of York, but instead drove on over to Maryland and were married. The first intimation that the family had of the trend of affairs was on Friday when they received a card from the bride saying: "Don't worry about us, we are married now."

CAUGHT SNEAK

McSherrystown, January 27.—Thad. A. Smith has at last caught the "sneak" which was responsible for the death of eight choice fowls during several weeks past. Mr. Smith was completely mystified by the manner of death of the chickens. They would be found in the chickenhouse each morning with a hole in their bodies and only the entrails removed. James Devine solved the mystery by setting a steel trap into which seven and a half pounds of possum flesh walked the other night.

New Measure to be Asked to Protect Mail Boxes of Rural Delivery System. Order Received from Washington.

Postmaster McIlhenny has received from the fourth assistant postmaster general an order regarding the rural delivery service which says among other things:

"The law prescribes severe penalties for malicious injury to rural mail boxes, but in some cases the punishment of the guilty persons has been made difficult by reason of the necessity for establishing the fact that the postmaster general had approved the box injured. To facilitate prosecution in such cases, it is proposed to amend section 3 of the act of March 3, 1903, chapter 1005 to read as follows:

"Whoever shall wilfully or maliciously injure, tear down, or destroy any letter box or other receptacle intended or used for the delivery of mail matter or any rural route, star route or other mail route, or shall break open the same or wilfully or maliciously injure or deface or destroy any mail matter deposited therein, or shall wilfully take or steal such matter from or out of such letter box or other receptacle, or shall wilfully assist in any of the aforementioned offenses, shall for every such offense be punished by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars or by imprisonment for not more than three years."

POINT FOR POSTAL BANKS

Under Pressure by President Committee Will Report Bill Favorably. Washington, Jan. 27.—The president has won the first point in his fight for the postal savings bank.

Under the pressure of his demand for such legislation and against the advice of Senator Aldrich and other leaders in the senate, he has forced action upon the measure. The senate committee on postoffice roads, of which Senator Penrose is chairman, considered the Carter postal savings bank bill.

It is already agreed that Senator Penrose shall report the bill favorably to the senate, with certain amendments. These amendments are likely to cause much discussion, but the fact that the measure is to be reported at this session leads those who favor the bill to believe that the president will succeed in getting it through the senate at least at this session. There is not so good a prospect of passing the measure in the house at this session, but the president is determined that this much of the party pledge shall be observed, and after the monetary commission makes its report next session, he expects that the postal savings bank bill will be enacted.

CONFESSES MURDER TO SPARE WIFE

Pleads Guilty to Save Her From Humiliation

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Jan. 27.—Michael Baab, charged with murdering Philip Richards, an amateur hypnotist, who exercised an improper hypnotic power over Mrs. Baab, pleaded guilty to murder in order to save his wife the humiliation of having to publicly tell about her relations with Richards.

Later in order to determine the degree of the murder, Judge Fuller heard the testimony privately. Mrs. Baab told how Richards had hypnotized her and how his power over her finally became so great that she told her husband and asked for his protection. Baab's attorneys also showed there is a taint of insanity in his family and that he has twice been severely injured in the head, and the injuries are inclined to produce mental weakness.

"WES" ANDREWS VERY ILL

Aged Republican State Chairman Has Severe Case of Pneumonia.

Washington, Jan. 27.—Grave fears as to the outcome of the illness through which Wesley R. Andrews, chairman of the Republican state committee of Pennsylvania, has been passing for the last ten days are held here. The severe cold which caused him to keep to his room has developed into a bad case of pneumonia. His condition is alarming to the doctors and friends, though this morning he appeared to be better.

The patient has made a good fight, but he is very weak. Being more than seventy-two years old, the chances are against him, although his doctors and Senator Penrose have not given up hope.

Teachers Prevent Panic.

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 27.—Presence of mind of teachers of the Girard school and the proficiency of the children in fire drill prevented a possible horror when the building caught fire. The teachers smelled the smoke, and without looking for the cause rang the bells for a fire drill. The pupils fled out in great glee in less than two minutes. Then the fire engines came and put out the flames. Overheated flues was the cause of $1000 damage.

CHARGES AGAINST MR. BALLINGER

Attorney For Glavis Outlines Them to Probers.

CORRUPTION NOT ALLEGED

Improperity of Conduct is All That Opponents Claim and the Committee Must Decide the Facts.

Washington, Jan. 27.—The "case for the prosecution" was explained to the Ballinger-Pinchot congressional committee when it began its inquiry by Louis D. Brandeis, of Boston, special counsel for Louis R. Glavis, the dismissed field agent, who appears as the chief accuser of Secretary Ballinger, in this manner:

Prior to entering the government service in any capacity, R. A. Ballinger acted as attorney in drawing up an agreement in screw and deeds in the Wilson Coal company cases in Lewis county, Wash., these cases, being an alleged fraud upon the land laws. Mr. Ballinger's name did not appear in the court records of the case.

That Mr. Ballinger, as commissioner of the land office, in 1907, did not show due diligence in investigating the alleged frauds connected with the Cunningham coal land claims in Alaska; that he had knowledge of all the circumstances surrounding these claims and in spite of this entered the employ of one of the claimants after leaving the land office and before becoming secretary of the interior; that he ordered these claims to be "clear listed" for patent without due investigation and that they would have gone to patent if Glavis and others had not intervened.

Do Not Allege Corrupt Action.

When Mr. Brandeis referred to Mr. Ballinger's action in becoming counsel for one of the claimants in the Alaska coal land case, Senator Sutherland, of Utah, interrupted: "You do not claim that Ballinger acted corruptly as commissioner, but that he made improper use of the information which he had obtained?"

"That is not all," replied Mr. Brandeis; "the fact that he acted at all with reference to the continuance of the contest was not consistent with the highest conduct as an officer of the government."

"Then you claim he acted corruptly, or improperly?" asked Senator Sutherland.

"Yes—improperly; that he acted without due regard to the interest of the government while commissioner. Also that he acted improperly afterward in taking employment from the claimants who had been before him as commissioner."

"We claim that Ballinger's action as commissioner was improper in his failure to thoroughly investigate the Alaska claims."

Says Glavis Saved Coal Lands.

"That he acted improperly in ordering these claims to patent, and we charge that they were on the road to patent, with undue haste, when Glavis intervened and saved them. That he acted improperly in allowing the Alaska claimants to see all the papers on file in the department. Cunningham said in a letter file at Juneau that Commissioner Ballinger gave him the papers."

"You are aware," interrupted Representative Olmsted, "that Secretary Ballinger specifically denies all this?"

"Yes," replied Mr. Brandeis, "and we will ask you to consider all our statements in connection with this denial."

Mr. Glavis was the only witness examined, and Senators Nelson, Root and Sutherland and Representatives Olmsted and Madison were the more active of the committeemen in plying the witness and his attorney with questions. Many times they referred to Secretary Ballinger's denials and sought explanation of what they considered discrepancies in statements.

PANAMA LIBEL CASE QUASHED

Judge Hough Decides Against U. S. Government.

New York, Jan. 27.—The government's prosecution of the publishers of the New York World was stopped by the federal court here, Judge Hough in the United States circuit court quashed the indictment against the Press Publishing company, publishers of the World, for alleged libel in connection with publications concerning the Panama canal purchase.

The indictment was thrown out on the ground of lack of jurisdiction of the court and for other reasons, which Judge Hough announced would be stated in a memorandum to be filed later.

The decision of Judge Hough is of international interest, the now famous libel case having at its inception included former President Roosevelt and his brother-in-law, Douglas Robinson, and President Taft and his brother, Charles F. Taft.

The publication in the New York World and the Indianapolis News, just before the close of the last presidential campaign, of an article in which it was asserted that relatives of former President Roosevelt and President Taft were members of a syndicate to purchase the stock of the French Panama Canal company from the French stockholders, when it was certain the United States would buy the stock, created a sensation. The American syndicate was said to have made millions.

President Roosevelt sent a special message to congress on the matter and made public correspondence in which he characterized the publication of the Panama story as false.

The federal proceedings in Indianapolis last October against Delavan Smith and Charles R. Williams, proprietors of the Indianapolis News, were thrown out of court, Judge Anderson declaring the publishers should not be "dragged from their homes" to Washington to be tried.

The decision of Judge Hough is generally regarded as a closing chapter in the case.

PORT DEPOSIT NEEDS ASSISTANCE

Appeal Sent Out For Food and Clothing For Sufferers.

Wilton, Md., Jan. 27.—With all hands diligently endeavoring to restore Port Deposit to its normal condition and wipe out the effects of the ice gorge and flood that played havoc with property on Sunday last, the people have turned their attentions to feeding the hungry and sheltering the homeless, and have asked Governor Crothers to have a bill passed by the Maryland legislature to appropriate $50,000 to the poor of the town. An appeal has also been sent out for food and clothing.

At a mass meeting Mayor Armstrong, T. C. Bond, F. T. Benson, Roy Snyder, John McClenahan and Dr. William Carson were appointed a relief committee. The loss, which has reached over $250,000, has made many a well-to-do citizen a poor man, as all their property has been wrecked.

The federal investigation made by Inspector Beckett and Engineer Tucker shows that the Baltimore & Ohio railroad bridge piling was not responsible for the blocking of the channel. The officers find that the cause was the blocking of the running ice at Watson island, north of the bridge, which forced the water and cakes of ice back into Port Deposit.

The Pennsylvania railroad, with its thousands of men with picks and shovels have reached the lower end of the town and a temporary passenger station has been erected at Tome institute.

ROUSSEAU'S SHYNESS.

An Experience the Composer Had in a Country Inn.

On one occasion Rousseau composed an opera, which was performed before King Louis XV. and met with the royal approval. The king sent for him, and if he had put in an appearance he would probably have obtained a pension. He was, however, of a retiring disposition and could not bring himself to face the court. To his friends he gave as a reason his republican opinions, but his real reason was his shyness.

Accordingly he fled from the court and sought the privacy of a country inn. While he was there a man came in who began telling the company that he was the celebrated Rousseau and proceeded to give an account of the opera, which, he said, had been performed before the king with great success.

Most men in Rousseau's position would have felt nothing but contempt for the impostor, but this extraordinary man felt only pity and shame. "I trembled and blushed so," he tells us in his "Confessions," "for fear the man should be found out that it might have been thought that I was the impostor." He was afraid that somebody might come in who knew him and expose the pretender. At last he could bear it no longer and slipped out unobserved.

Very few people would treat an impostor like that—Westminster Gazette.

Azoturia, a disease of the horse family that yearly takes off thousands of valuable individuals, is directly due to overfeeding with nitrogenous foods, like clover and alfalfa, and lack of regular exercise. The illness is brought on by an overloading of the eliminatory system with unoxidized nitrogen drawn from the liver, where it accumulates. While there are cures for the disease, it is easily prevented by reducing the nitrogenous ration—the feeding of timothy and clean straw, instead of clover and alfalfa, and feeding a light mixed ration of corn and oats. Another help for the horse which does not have regular work is the run of a paddock, where it will get exercise enough to keep in good condition.

Nervous Collapse

"I have traveled for thirty years continually. I lost a great deal of sleep, which together with constant worry left me in such a nervous state that finally, after having two collapses of nervous prostration, I was obliged to give up traveling altogether. I doctored continually but with no relief. Dr. Miles' Nervine came to my rescue—I cannot describe the suffering which this Nervine saved me. Whenever I am particularly nervous a few doses relieve me."

A. G. C. LIBBY, Wells, Me.
There are many nervous wrecks. There is nervous prostration of the stomach, of the bowels, and other organs. The brain, the kidneys, the liver, the nerve centers are all exhausted. There is but one thing to do—build up the nervous system by the use of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. Its strengthening influence upon the nervous system restores normal action to the organs, and when they all work in harmony, health is assured. Get a bottle from your druggist. Take it all according to directions, and if it does not benefit he will return your money.

MINERS THREATEN NATIONAL STRIKE

Bituminous Men Plan Move For Uniform Increase.

LEADERS SEEM TO AGREE

Would Call Out All the Union Men in the United States and Canada if Demands Are Not Granted.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 27.—The leaders of the United Mine Workers of America predict a general strike of the soft coal miners of the United States and Canada if any of the operators refuse to grant an increase of wages.

Thomas L. Lewis, president, in discussing the proposal of some of the leaders that the entire delegate body should go to Toledo next week for the wage conference with the operators in Ohio, Indiana and western Pennsylvania, urged that wage contracts should not be signed by any districts of the union until all should have obtained from the mine operators a uniform increase of wages.

"No one district should slaughter another," Lewis said, "by sending coal into the market while the other districts are struggling for better wages." Duncan McDonald, president of the Illinois district, one of the leaders of the element in the convention opposed to the policies of Lewis, heartily supported Lewis in his announced plan to make the strike general if a strike is necessary in any district. McDonald said that because of the increase in the cost of living, an increase in wages was essential and a strike is certain if the employers do not yield.

National Strike Talk.

"But what we should have," declared McDonald, "is a general industrial strike. We do not want the railroad men to be hauling into the coal fields 'scab' miners and hauling out 'scab' coal while we are on strike. We should send a committee to the railroad unions and persuade them to co-operate with us."

Francis Feehan, president of the western Pennsylvania district, said his conviction was that the organization should issue an ultimatum that a strike in all districts will be called on April 1 if an increase of wages of more than 10 per cent be not made effective on that date.

"A hundred organizers should at once be appointed," said Feehan, "to go into the unorganized fields of Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Maryland and the south to line up these miners for a strike that will paralyze the coal industry if our demands are not conceded by the operators. There are 100,000 non-union miners in Pennsylvania east of my district, and this administration has done nothing toward organizing these men, but has not even supported my district, and 10,000 union miners actually have suffered a decrease in wages. Western Pennsylvania is ready to strike."

The matter will come up again in the report of the wage scale committee. Mr. Lewis introduced a resolution that the miners should continue at work after the expiration of the present wage contract, March 31, until a new contract is signed or a strike called, and that no definite date for a strike be set in this convention.

DIES PRAYING IN FIRE

Find Body of Woman on Knees and Hands Clasped.

Mount Carmel, Pa., Jan. 27.—A disastrous fire on South Market street resulted in the death of Mrs. Joseph Hinkel, thirty years old, and the mother of three children. A nine-year-old boy carried out his four-year-old brother, and then hurried back through the smoke and flames and hunted and carried out to safety his year-old baby sister.

After the fire was extinguished and the excitement had died down, a teamster examining the ruins found the woman, kneeling and hands clasped and upraised as if in prayer. Almost all of her clothing was burned from the body.

SAYS PROFITS ON FOOD ARE TOO HIGH

Secretary Wilson Declares Retailers Exact 28 Per Cent.

Philadelphia, Jan. 27.—"The people are paying the retailers too much for their food. Thirty-eight per cent is the average retail profit throughout the country, and it is too great an exaction to charge."

Secretary Wilson, of the department of agriculture, in these words reiterated his answer to the question as to the cause of the high prices of food products. He visited this city to hear his daughter, Miss Flora Wilson, make her debut as a concert singer at the Bellevue-Stratford, and was afterwards entertained at a banquet at the Manufacturers' club.

Mr. Wilson was asked to explain his statement that retail food dealers in Philadelphia exacted 20 per cent profit. He said:

"By 20 per cent profit I mean the difference between the price at which the retailer sells and that at which he buys. I do not mean to take into consideration the cost of marketing the goods. As the average throughout the United States is 38 per cent, ranging from 17 per cent to 68 per cent in fifty cities investigated, the latter high profit being obtained in Shreveport, La., and Mobile, Ala., the 20 per cent of profit in Philadelphia is small compared with the rest."

"If there are too many dealers would not excessive competition reduce rather than raise profits?" was asked.

"There is no competition," was the reply. "There is a combination that controls prices. I do not say that there is a combination among the retailers, I wish this to be understood. I do not know what the nature of the combination is that sustains prices. Congress is investigating this matter and has the power to call witnesses and make them testify. I have not."

"But it is my idea that it will be found that there is a combination among the wholesalers that dictates prices to the retailers, that tells them what they must charge their customers."

FRENCH FLOOD NOW A CALAMITY

The Present Loss Estimated at $200,000,000.

30,000 PEOPLE HOMELESS

Whole Sections of France Are Under Water and Rivers Are Still Rising. Troops Aid in Rescuing People From Their Homes.

Paris, Jan. 27.—The floods throughout France are steadily growing worse and have now become a national calamity. Over 30,000 people are homeless and the property loss is estimated at $200,000,000.

In this city the situation became more desperate as the day progressed. The Rue Royale between the Place de la Concorde and the Madeleine, the famous church edifice, began to sink and was hurriedly roped off.

Several big fissures have occurred in the Javel region. The boulevard adjoining the Pont de Bercy and the street in front of the Louvre museum also began to cave in.

Foot passage across the Pont des Sts. Peres has been stopped. The flood invaded streets are filled with rowboats, the owners of which demand fabulous prices to remove furniture and valuables.

Large Part of City Under Water.

Large portions of the capital are under water, six square miles of the historic Bois de Boulogne being submerged, while the Seine has filled the suburbs, inundated the Palais Bourbon, the foreign office and scores of historic monuments along each side of the river.

A blinding snow storm is raging in Paris, and, coupled with the bitter cold, added to the suffering and misery of the poor and homeless.

The many bridges which span the river are threatened with destruction, as vast accumulations are banked against them by the terrific force of the onrushing flood.

Military forces have been summoned from all parts of the country, and the city has been divided into five military divisions for rescue and relief work.

The Seine continues to rise an inch an hour. It is believed that the water will reach a maximum of thirty-one feet, or a height greater than that reached by the disastrous flood of the year 1802.

All France in Storm's Grip.

It is impossible to predict anything with accuracy, as the whole of France is still in the grip of an unprecedented storm. Rain, snow and hail are falling everywhere, the coasts are storm-bound and ships are fleeing to harbors for refuge.

West street, at the west of the foreign office, is in imminent danger of collapse, being sustained only by the compressed air forced from the flooded subway beneath.

Should this fail the entire street must cave in. The archives of the foreign office, in an adjoining building, appear safe.

Foreign Minister Pichon ordered the evacuation of the wing of the foreign office building which borders on the flooded Rue de Constantin. All active working departments were closed.

The water has reached the postoffice building and forced employees to flee. It also reached the chamber of deputies, though the members continued in session.

The flood has reached the top of the presidential tribune at the Longchamps race course. Six square miles of the Du Bois de Boulogne are submerged.

City Feeling the Pinch of Hunger.

The capital is beginning to feel the pinch of hunger. The supply of fresh meat and vegetables is failing and prices are rising to famine figures.

Some bakers who attempted to double the price of bread were roughly handled and two of them were thrown into the Seine at Charenton.

Half of the arrondissements of Paris are affected directly now, and the rich as well as the poor are beginning to suffer. The wealthy Champs Elysees district is without gas or electricity and some of the homes have no heat.

Prefect of Police Lepine has taken up headquarters in that district and is directing rescue work. After ceaseless work throughout the night with rowboats and autoboats they found more than 3000 persons imprisoned in the second stories of their homes.

Details from flooded regions of the provinces are harrowing in their monotony of broken canal dikes and inundation of villages.

Newspapers are filled with pages of recitals of death and desolation of ruined homesteads and fleeing refugees.

Philadelphia Murderer Hanged.

Philadelphia, Jan. 27.—Alfred Wnek, who two years ago was convicted of the murder of his sweetheart, Emma Kerner, because she refused to marry him, was hanged at Moyamensing prison today. The crime was committed on Nov. 18, 1907. The girl was shot as she left the factory where she was employed, at Paul and Margaretta streets. When he saw that his victim was dead Wnek attempted suicide. Two applications for a pardon were made.

Farm Abandonment Ended.

The age of farm abandonment is practically at an end, for the farmer has solved the problem of how to make a living for himself and family and at the same time accumulate a good bank account from the products of a small tract of land. New conditions require new methods, and this applies with greater force to farming than to any other form of productive industry.

ITCHING ECZEMA WASHED AWAY

Is it worth 25 cents to you to stop that awful, agonizing itch? Surely you will spend 25 cents on your druggists recommendation, to cool and heal and soothe that terrible itching eruption?

By arrangement with the D. D. D. laboratories of Chicago, we are able to make a special offer of a 25-cent bottle of their oil of wintergreen compound, known as D. D. D. Prescription. Call, or write or telephone to People's Drug Store.

We absolutely know that the itch is stopped AT ONCE by D. D. D. Prescription, and the cure seems to be permanent.

FEATHERS AND EGGSHELLS.

To save time in feeding birds at a London zoo electric lights are turned on before daylight, and the birds, thinking it's sunrise, get busy. In New York this plan is used to fatten ducks when in a rush to finish them. They are fed several meals a night.

When a young ostrich is six months old it is generally six feet high. Some fancier fledgelings burst the shell and mature into scientific poultry prodigies in a season.

A hen's egg contains 650 grains of water, 120 grains of fat, 106 grains of lime, 80 grains of albumen, 26 grains of sugar and 10 grains of ash. When all these are heated together in a hay-mow and allowed to stand for a fortnight they are changed to a thousand grains of dynamite.

A wild turkey weighing thirty-three pounds was shot near Lewistown, Pa., and was found to be a cross of Bronze and wild. Its parent on one side had wandered from the farm back to the wild life.

The Washington Poultry Protective association is fighting the law prohibiting roosters in that city. Hope their legal rooster licks.

Have you ever thought how quietly the poultry business is conducted? One billion dollars' worth of products turned out without the screech of a whistle or clang of hammer! Oh, you anti-noise cure, aren't we it?

The Ohio supreme court declares "an egg is not an egg if it is a bad egg" and a groceryman cannot collect a bill for such eggs. Thus it's a good plan to buy eggs on tick for examination.

When the chicken census taker calls in April he will ask the number and age of your fowls. Better sell off those old staggers to the "boardin' missis," for if you tell him their full age he will think you're lying and arrest you.

Some of our friends who have tried the "city lot" poultry intensive plan have found it very expensive. Whenever those poultry secret get-rich-quick schemes are turned loose on you look for a "nigger in the wood pile."

The York (Pa.) Ministerial association conducted a successful crusade against turkey raffles during the holidays. Its contention was based on two points—the raffle is a form of gambling prohibited by law, and the wholesale purchase of turkeys for these bounties so advances the price that they are almost prohibitive.

Washington declares our annual rat bill for destroyed grain is $100,000,000, each rat eating 60 cents' worth a year. Sixty cents feeds a hen in certain localities. Yellow peril is the stuff for rats.

If fakers would spend as much time on breeding good birds as they do on fixing up old culs to cheat with at shows they would not figure in the rogues' gallery as sneak thieves of the fancy.

FEEDING BEES IN WINTER.

Sugar Sirup Recommended When Honey Store Is Insufficient.

No one should attempt to winter a hive of bees which is poorly supplied with honey. Such a colony needs to be either fed or brimstoned. Only good, heavy colonies should be wintered. One can tell whether a hive has sufficient stores for winter by testing the weight. If the hive lifts like a box of bricks it has enough stores, but if it lifts easily, like an empty box, then it has insufficient honey to carry the bees through a severe winter.

It is not difficult to feed a colony for winter. Dissolve seven pints of granulated sugar in about four pints of hot water. Pour the gallon of sirup resulting into four quart jars and invert these in shallow saucers, preferably shallow tins, like the covers of lard pails. Place them just at dusk either over the frames of the hive or about the entrance. Insert small nails under the edges of the jars to allow air to enter as the sirup is licked up. If the night is cold throw two or three sacks over the jars to hold the heat and encourage the bees to carry the sirup into the hive. Stir the bees up before throwing the sacks over the jars. This feed can be given at any time till such cold weather sets in that the bees will not take care of it. The amount suggested is enough to take bees into early April.

All hives that have enough stores can be protected for winter in the following simple manner: Select as many large bran sacks as there are hives. Open the bottom of each sack so that the two ends are alike. Have ready dry leaves, laths, small nails and hammer. Draw a sack down over a hive as you would draw a stocking over your foot. Before starting in place a small block over the entrance to keep the bees in while the work is being done. Fasten the edge of the sack along the bottom of the hive with a piece of lath secured by two nails. Let the sack come quite to the bottom at the sides and the back of the hive, but in front turn it up so the entrance will be left unobstructed. Now push leaves in between hive and sack, filling first at each corner, so that sack is free from hive on all sides. Pack in the leaves firmly all round and above the hive till the sack is nearly full. Then with some long nails or with strings gather the upper edges of the sack so that the leaves will not spring out.

As the hive now is rain will wet the leaves and make the protection worse than useless. Some waterproof material must be laid over all. A square of tar paper laid over and then covered with another sack is good. This upper sack should have its corners pinned down with wire nails.

It takes but half an hour to get a hive ready for winter in this manner, and the labor will be well paid for. Thus prepared the colonies will winter splendidly in even severe winters and will build up rapidly in the spring to furnish early swarms or supers of honey. This protection can be taken off in early May and made into a bonfire, the sacks being saved for smoker fuel—fuel of the very best sort to make clean white smoke.

He Was a Good Mixer.

There used to be a popular minister in Indianapolis who was well known in Louisville. He was pastor of one of the leading churches of the city. He was built like the plan of the late Henry George, whose motto was, "I am for men." This Indianapolis preacher was what is called a "good mixer." One day he stopped in a blacksmith shop to chat with the workmen. During the visit a florid faced man of prosperous appearance came into the shop. He and the minister began chatting, but neither knew the other's line of business. They became good friends in a few minutes. Finally the florid faced man produced his card, which announced that he was in the saloon business on West street.

"Come down to my place any time," he said, "and I'll show you a good time."

"All right," replied the minister, "and by the way, I'm running a pretty good place myself. Come and see me, and I'll show you a good time."

"I'll sure do that," said the other. "But by the way, where is your joint?"

"My joint," was the reply, "is the First Presbyterian church. Just inquire for Myron W. Weed, the pastor, and I'll be at your service."—Louisville Times

Farm and Garden

SEED CORN EVANGELIST.

How Professor Holden Taught Iowa Farmers to Plant Good Grain.

One day in 1904 an Iowa college professor worked out a problem in arithmetic which caused him to catch some of the zeal which the evangelists had caught in their training schools, and he resolved on a campaign in behalf of yellow and white, variegated and red, dent and flint, Indian corn, almost as unusual as that adopted by the traveling evangelists who had been calling men to account for the waste of life by wickedness.

Professor Holden's little problem showed the farms were increasing in value because of the new and complex development and new armies of plowmen pushing into the west. At the rate they were producing the best would soon stop "paying dividends" on a valuation of $100 per acre.

Thirty years ago, with land worth $8 to $20 per acre, a farmer did not need to be as careful as he must be today, when the same land is worth from $75 to $150 per acre. "There must be better farming in the middle west, and one way to do it is to go out among the farmers and show them that the 'book farmers' in the agricultural colleges are practical farmers—that they are capable of making more than a living on forty acres and would not starve to death on 100 acres, as the farmers say sometimes," said Holden after having thought the matter over.

Other men were giving thought to the same problem of rising land values and lagging production. As early as 1896 Henry Wallace, editor of Wallace's Farmer, in company with State Dairy Commissioner Boardman, had made a trial of the special train as an educational agent in a campaign for the stimulation of dairy interest through the Des Moines valley. Now the former and Superintendent Given of the Rock Island road turned their attention to the corn question. They called Professor Holden into their councils. It was at once manifest that he was the ideal executive—the man to do the work.

Accordingly Professor Holden planned a campaign in Iowa with the assistance of railroad managers. He would take a special train and go out on the railroads where he could meet the farmers and show them that science only simplifies.

Professor Holden's plan was not to go into plant breeding, but to confine himself largely to insisting that the farmers plant selected seed corn, seed which had been tested in a simple device which could be made in any farm workshop. Given this hint in lectures and by the use of charts, the Iowa educator believed the direct result would be instantaneous, while the fairland of science would be opened a little way to the farmers, and they would realize after the first year or two of experimenting that by harnessing up and using the forces of heredity in corn and other farm crops production could be greatly increased and consequently the profits of farming become greater, the land "pay dividends" on a higher valuation, because brains had been mixed with muscle in meeting the seasons.

The work Professor Holden proposed to do was evangelistic, and when his trains were started down the long lines of shimmering steel they became known as "seed corn gospel trains."

Some of the figures Professor Holden presented were startling, but they sent large audiences of farmers away from the meetings pledged never again to select seed corn from a crib with a scoop shovel.

Remedy For Potato Blight.

An effective remedy for potato blight has been found in bordeaux mixture, which consists of four pounds of copper sulphate and five or six pounds of fresh lime in sixty gallons of water. This remedy is also effective against what is known as the early blight, which attacks the early varieties, while the late blight seldom appears before the first of August and does not attack the late kinds unless they are planted late in the season. This mixture can be used in connection with paris green or arsenate of lead for the potato beetle. The arsenical article is especially valuable, as it does not burn the foliage and adheres so firmly that it is not easily washed off by rain. When spraying with this in connection with the bordeaux mixture, use two pounds of the arsenate in fifty gallons, and use when the beetles first appear. This will prove very effective, though if other beetles appear later in the season it will be necessary to spray again in order to protect the growth made after the first application.
